Too Much Reform.

The spirit of reform
Is in the air--
It's here, and it's there,
And it's everywhere

Why, the Swiss are giving Themselves concern,
To meet the world
In the city of Bern,
To change the calendar
From January,
In a manner most Extraordinary.

They wish to leave Sunday
Without a date,
Which of course is something
That'll never take.
For the boys and the girls
Cannot stay sweet,
Without their dates
On the first of the week

Yes, spirits of reform
Are in the air--
They're here, and they're there,
And they're everywhere.

WILLIAM J. BURTSCHER in "Judge."

THE Democratic majority in the lower house of Congress has succeeded in passing a free list through that body. This free list would no doubt afford the country a vast and just relief from much of the high cost of living if finally adopted, but it is scarcely among the probabilities that it will ever become a law over the adverse Republican majority in the Senate.

To succeed is to do your best; failure is not to be true to the best you know, not to stay where you are and to do what you can just as well as you can. Outside success is what man looks upon and worships; inside success is what you are, and what God looks at in forming the final estimate. To be the best you can possibly be under your circumstances, and to do the best where you are, patient and uncomplaining--this is to succeed. --Ex.

EVERYBODY can be a success in the good will business, and it is infinitely better to fail in our vocation and to succeed in this, than to accumulate great wealth and be a failure in helpfulness, in a kindly, sympathetic attitude toward others. The habit of wishing everybody well, of feeling like giving everybody a God-speed, enobles and beautifies the character wonderfully, magnifies our ability, and multiplies our mental power. Humanity planned on lines of nobility; we were intended to be something grand; not mean and stingy, but large and generous; we were made to God's image that we might be God-like. Selfishness and greed dwarf our natures and makes us mere apologies for the men God intended us to be. --Exchange.

If the energy that will be wasted over baseball during the next three months were applied to cultivating the cotton crop, every man could have two shirts where he only had one before. --Hondo Anvil Herald. That is one way to look at it, and it seems reasonable from one point of view. However, look a moment at the good features of the sport. For the most part it is indulged in by growing boys, to whom it is a source of wholesomeness and health. It is an innocent sport, and helps to keep them out of mischief. The league baseball games of the cities afford the spectators a diversion and pleasure which helps to keep them in good humor and working trim--if the home team does not lose too often. A baseball game, like an afternoon's fishing, is a good relief to the monotony of daily toil. --Galveston News.

THE fundamental principle of local option is that each community should be allowed, as near as may be, to regulate its own affairs. This has been recognized for years as an equitable principle. Through an appeal to this principle, prohibition has been adopted in every community where the sentiment is opposed to the sale of liquor. Having, as some admit, accomplished all they can for prohibition through local option, the people are now asked to turn upon this principle and destroy it by an exercise of state sovereignty and refuse those communities that are satisfied with the legalized sale of liquor the right which they have exercised for themselves of regulating their own affairs. This is so self-evident that it needs no exposition. Regardless of whether a man believes in prohibition or not, no man who is consistent in his belief that the principle by which communities have voted themselves dry is a correct principle can possibly favor denying another community the right to regulate its own affairs in its own way whether that way suits him or not. It is the thousands of sober, level-headed men of Texas who have this sane view of the matter who will say by their votes on July 22nd to those fanatics who would do any thing, good or evil, in the frenzy at the "Rum Demon," "so far can you go in your assault upon the rights of the individual, but no further!"

To be able to look every man squarely in the eyes; to make friends and hold them; to keep clean of mind and body; to smile at ill fortune; to laugh at my mistakes; to frown when temptation comes a-visiting; to be ready with a word of cheer when that word will help; to strive to develop to the utmost the heart, head and hand qualities bestowed by the Ruler Over All; to hold all women in respect and to love one; to weave the thread of eternal optimism into the lives of all with whom I may come in contact; to worship nature and the Great Spirit that conceived it all--in a word, to play the game of life with a steady hand and the qualmless conscience and a real desire to be of service--that is my religion. And, say--if I can live up to the mark, don't you think I've corralled about all the creed that is necessary? --Backbone Monthly.

We are not here long enough to quarrel. Life is too short to say all the pleasant things we should without wasting a single word. --Ex.

A Hopeful Message to Scalp Sufferers and Men Whose Hair is Thinning

Dandruff now--bald later. The same is true of scalp diseases. In fact, baldness is a scalp disease. The trouble with the greasy salves and lotions, the so-called dandruff and scalp cures you have tried so far is that they don't do any thing but temporarily relieve the itching and make the dandruff so it does not fall until it's dried out again. Nothing can cure--really cure such troubles but a real scalp medicine that will kill the germs causing dandruff and scalp disease.

Learning from leading fellow druggists throughout America that they had found a whirlwind cure for dandruff, eczema and all diseases of the skin and scalp, the Windrow drug store, on proving to the laboratories compounding the treatment that it is the most prominent drug store in this city, secured the agency for the remedy. This remedy is ZEMO, the clean, liquid preparation that kills the germ of disease and ZEMO SOAP to wash the scalp or skin clear and clean of the dandruff or scale and by its antiseptic qualities soothe and heal.

Sold and guaranteed by druggists everywhere and in Hondo by W. H. Windrow.

A real wise man treats his friends as though he expected them to become his enemies some day!

Is there anything in all this world that is of more importance to you than good digestion? Food must be eaten to sustain life and must be digested and converted into blood. When the digestion fails the whole body suffers. Chamberlain's Tablets are a rational and reliable cure for indigestion. They increase the flow of bile, purify the blood, strengthen the stomach, and tone up the whole digestive apparatus to a natural and healthy action. For sale by all Dealers.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

Do Ghosts Haunt Swamps?

No, Never. Its foolish to fear a fancied evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous, and lowlands. These are the malaria germs that cause ague, chills, fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system, wrote Wm. Fretwell of Lucama, N. C., "and I've had fine health ever since." Use this safe, sure remedy only, 50¢ at W. H. Windrow's.

No gentleman will swear before a lady—unless she is his wife!

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bilhartz was christened at the St. Louis Church Sunday afternoon. Rev. Father Heckmann officiating. The Sponsors were, Mr. Oscar Bilhartz and Miss Lorine Wernette.

Died.

Mrs. Mary Keller, nee Bohl, beloved wife of Mr. Henry Keller Sr. died at her home on the Sauz on Friday morning May, 12th, and was laid to rest at the Catholic Cemetery on Saturday morning. Rev. Father Heckmann performed the last sad rites.

Deceased was born at Castroville, Feb. 9, 1857, and on October 7, 1873, was happily married to Mr. Keller which union was blessed with five children, three sons and two daughters of which number one son and one daughter have preceded her in death.

Mrs. Keller was a devout Christian Lady, a dutiful wife and loving mother and a kind and accommodating neighbor, beloved and respected by all who were fortunate enough to come in contact with her.

Besides her grief stricken husband and motherless children, deceased leaves several grandchildren and one brother and a large number of other near and dear relatives to mourn her untimely demise.

A large cortege of mourning relatives and friends escorted the remains to their last resting place.

St. Anna Society, of which deceased was a member, attended in a body.

We join the many friends in sympathy with the bereaved and grief-stricken ones. R. I. P.

Farm life is the only life in novels!

Cotton

Cotton has given the world its most gigantic industry. Millions of people cultivate the plant and as many more weave at its looms and its fibre clothes the human race. It is the most powerful agency in our civilization, running both plow and factory, and it is the leading merchandise of mankind. Its field has aroused the inventive genius of the country and it is an important factor in medicine and arts. The seed is food for man and beast and cotton products appear in numerous forms on all markets of the world.

It is the most youthful of staple products, having had less than a century of commercial recognition, but it has rapidly acquired power until today it is the King of Products. The fleecy staple is as good as legal tender on any market and based on factory values is the richest of all industries.

For the past century it has engaged the brightest intellects of the world in science and commerce and many of its problems are only half solved. The inventive minds of the universe have pored over its fibre; merchant princes have studied its markets and the ablest financiers have sought to fix its value.

Cotton is limited in its area of production to Texas and a few other Southern states but its consumption is worldwide and it is one of the leading necessities of life which insures forever a profitable return to the producer. It has been maligned by its beneficiaries and railed at by writers, but Texas cotton stands today the most reliable and profitable staple product of any crop of all agricultural states in the Union. The state average of production per acre 1910 was 149 pounds; the lint selling for $20.38 and the seed at $3.77, making a total average production per acre of $24.63. Comparing this with the leading agricultural products of other states we find corn in Illinois producing $14.55 per acre; wheat in Kansas $11.93 per acre and oats in Iowa $10.20 per acre; these states leading in the products mentioned.

Cotton is by far the most valuable of our farm products. In 1910 we harvested 10,530,000 acres of cotton, making 2,149,000 bales, valued at $23,155,000. The increase in yield in 1910 over 1909 was 24 pounds per acre. The crop of the United States in 1910 was 11,426,000 bales.

Texas is the home of this remarkable plant, the soil and climate being peculiarly adapted by nature to its propagation and to the proper maturing of its fibre.

Prolonging Life.

While no way has yet been found to make life perpetual, it is a fact that life can be prolonged. Many people die before their time because the organs become clogged and cannot do their work. To keep the body open, active and free from impurities there must be no constipation, dyspepsia, flatulency, liver troubles, etc. If old or young people suffer from these complaints they can find a ready cure with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is absolutely guaranteed to do what is claimed, and if you want to try it before buying, send your address for a free sample bottle to Pepsin Syrup Co., 119 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill. It is sold by all Dealers at 50¢ and $1.00 a bottle.

Saved Child From Death.

"After our child had suffered from severe bronchial trouble for a year," wrote G. T. Richardson, of Richardson's Mills, Ala., "we feared it had consumption. It had a bad cough all the time. We tried many remedies without avail, and doctor's medicine seemed as useless. Finally we tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and are pleased to say that one bottle effected a complete cure, and our child is again strong and healthy." Neglected wounds produce old sores and these in time develop ulcers which eat away the vitality.

Ballard's Snow Liniment

Is a Healing Remedy for All Ailments of the Flesh of Man and Beast.

The speed with which this splendid Liniment heals up a bad wound or sore has surprised and pleased those who were accustomed to the slower and uncertain effect of less powerful remedies. It mends the lacerated flesh so quickly that there is but little time lost from work. In relieving rheumatic pains, neuralgia, sciatica, it has done and is doing a wonderful work. Many chronic victims of these diseases have found to their great satisfaction that it cures an attack in a fraction of the time required by the ordinary treatment.

It is equally effective in the flesh ailments of animals. Owners of blooded stock value it highly for two reasons: It heals sores and wounds quickly, and leaves no disfiguring scars. This remedy is needed in every home. If its great power and efficacy was generally known, no family would be without it.

Price 25¢, 50¢ and $1.00 per Bottle.

100,000 Mile Auto Arrives.

With a total mileage of 26,946 miles to its credit and 39 states travelled in since last July the Abbott-Detroit "Bull Dog" arrived in this city at 11:30 o'clock in charge of Dr. Chas. G. Percival, editor of Health Magazine of New York City, under whose auspices the proposed 100,000 mile trip of the Abbott is being made.

The car is attempting the longest automobile trip ever before known in the history of the industry. —100,000 miles and judging by its performance up to date, it bids fair to accomplish the feat.

The car which is a 1910 Stock car, was purchased from the Kansas City agent after it had been used as a demonstrator 6000 miles and been a contestant in many endurance and reliability runs.

Leaving Denver Colorado on October 10th the car travelled to Detroit Michigan and from Detroit to Portland, Maine, arriving on Thanksgiving Day, its farthest eastern point. From Portland the trip went to Cincinnati, carrying letters from the Mayors of Detroit-Portland and Boston to President Taft, who received the car on Dec. 5th. at the White House. From Cincinnati the course lay due South to Jacksonville, Florida by way of Nashville, Tenn., Huntsville, Alabama, Chattanooga, Tenn., Atlanta, Ga., Jacksonville, Fla., Savannah, Ga., Charlotte, S. C., Winston Salem, N. C., Lynchburg, Va., Washington, D. C., Philadelphia and New York City, which was reached on New Years Day 1911. Then the trial led back to Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, Des Moines and to Omaha which city was left on March 11th, for the City of Mexico, by way of Oklahoma and Texas. The two men are carrying a letter from President Taft to President Diaz conveying the greetings of the American people to the chief executive of that republic, and after visiting all the important cities in Mexico, the trip will lead to Phoenix, and across the desert to Los Angeles, and up the Pacific Coast, as far as Vancouver, British Columbia and back across the British Canadian territory for 7000 miles to Montreal and down the Atlantic Coast to the Isthmus of Panama, thus completely circling the border of the United States, visiting every state and crossing the continent twice, a journey equal to twice the distance around the world and never before equalled by men or automobile.

The car is equipped with American products entirely, being furnished with Splitdorf magneto, Casgrain speedometer, Harris oil, Goodyear and Diamond tires and Vacuum carafes for hot or cold drinks according to the climate, cooking and camping utensils, sleeping bags, block and tackle, shovels, axes, and all the necessary equipment needed on a trip of the magnitude of this one.

At the completion of the 100,000 miles, the car is to be torn down and subjected to an exhaustive examination by a technical committee composed of prominent automobile authorities, and it is conceded that both the industry and the Abbott Motor Co. will benefit greatly by what has been accomplished, by this $1500 American Automobile.

How Power is Stored up in a Watch to keep it CONSTANTLY RUNNING.

WATCH MAINSPRING.

When you wind your watch you coil up a strip of steel about 21 inches long, thus storing up nearly one pound of power within the main wheel. This power is carried by a train of wheels to the balance, to which it is delivered in homeopathic doses that keeps it in uniform motion.
If the spring is made of poor steel or improperly tempered it soon loses its elasticity and the watch does not then run alike when first wound and when near the end of 36 hours.

This would not happen in a South Bend Watch. The South Bend main-spring is made of a specially blended steel and is tempered by men who have devoted their lives to that particular operation. They do not loose their elasticity.

WISE WORDS THAT TEXANS MIGHT HEED

A TEMPERANCE LECTURE

By Henry Watterson
Touching
Bavarian Beer.

WRITING from Munich, Bavaria, to Louisville, Kentucky—if the composing room abridges it to "Ky." I will massacre the staff of proof-readers when I get home—is much like writing from Louisville, Kentucky, to Munich, Bavaria, because the essential difference between the two, like that between politics and parties in the United States, is of a fluid condition and kind; the idiosyncrasy of Kentucky, whisky, of Bavaria, beer.

There are other similarities. Munich is the most beautiful city in Germany. Louisville is the most beautiful city in America. Vienna gets its pretty girls from Munich. Half the pretty girls on Broadway come from Kentucky. The Germans of Louisville are the best people in the world. They seem part and parcel of the Germans of Munich.

I don't know much about whisky, have never drunk enough of it to learn—they tell me the Kentucky brands are the best ever and I can well believe it, taking the Kentucky women and the Kentucky horses as the world's standards of excellence—but I am an expert on beer, and I do say—"without the peradventure of a doubt, or fear of successful contradiction"—that there is no brew on earth equal to the Bavarian Hofbrau; howbeit, the especial brew which Adolphus Busch makes for Tony Faust, comes near to it, whilst there is good beer to be had in Milwaukee, in Louisville and even in Cincinnati, bless her poor old soul!

I hope I shall not too greatly offend the Kentucky distillers, when I declare that, if I had the power, I would translate every distillery into a brewery. The cure for drunkenness, if there be any cure, is light wines and lager. The case-hardened prohibitionist who confesses himself unable to distinguish between a glass of grog and a stein of beer—nay, who still further discredits his judgment by admitting that he is unable to realize the amazing contraries between a bottle of whisky and a hole in the ground—is as much opposed to the one as to the other. He makes no discrimination. All drinks look alike to him, each hell-bent and set-breeding, the most innocent tipples along with the strongest spirits. The experience of continental Europe is proof of my contention. Here in Bavaria the beer consumption is universal and enormous, and there is no drunkenness of the sort so common with us. I am indebted to Consul General Thomas Willing Peters for a valuable collation of facts bearing upon the drink question from this point of view.

The laws governing the sale of beer, wines and liquors in Munich are in the nature of the people and the case extremely liberal. According to the census of 1905, there were in Munich 538,938 inhabitants, all, or at least a very high percentage, requiring liquid nourishment, principally in the form of beer. To meet this need the authorities granted permission to 1,480 saloons, in which beer may be sold; 129 wine restaurants, eighty-one cafes and eight tea houses, making an average of one establishment for the sale of such refreshments to about 319 persons, exclusive of the floating population. Considering that beer is both food and drink and of universal consumption, this is not a high percentage.

Any respectable person making application to the proper authorities and securing permission can open a saloon for the sale of beer; but a bar where other liquors as well as beer are sold is subject to the restriction that it must be 400 meters distant from any other bar of the same description, nor will permission be granted by the authorities unless they are satisfied that the public require such additional saloons for its convenience. Besides the regular income tax, a license tax has to be paid according to the rent which the saloon keeper has to pay. The proprietor must keep an accurate account and return a certain percentage on the profits of his business. The hours for opening the beer saloons and wine houses are ordinarily from 5 a. m. closing at 11 p. m., including Sundays and holidays, the tea rooms and coffee rooms closing at 7 o'clock p. m.

The question of prohibition is unknown. The moral zealot would be considered a crank. Beer is not only drink, but food, for a large proportion of the population. The manufacture of beer is under the strict supervision of the law, which is rigidly enforced, and nothing but malt and hops can be used.

The consumption of concentrated alcoholic drinks is proportion to that of beer is exceeding small. Beer and light wines constitute the national beverage equally for the wealthy and the lowly, the rich and the poor. The many beautiful gardens where drinks are dispensed, having comfortable tables and chairs and good attendants, are crowded during pleasant weather with the most respectable classes of society, ranging from the highest in rank to the peasantry, all joining together in a republic of pleasure, drinking in moderation while enjoying the best of music. This is furnished as a rule by some one of the numerous military bands. It is the same during the winter months with the indoor places.

Upon many journeys through Germany I have never seen one single case of drunkenness in any of these halls or gardens. Treating, with its concomitant evils, is practically unknown. Each man pays for what he requires, drinking no more than he wishes. Sometimes the general thirst on a warm summer day is titanic in its capacity for consumption. But, notwithstanding the vast quantities consumed, beer does not seem to engender the combative element aroused by alcoholic drink; it has rather the reverse effect, for it not only satisfies the thirst, but contains a food quality, which resists the small percentage of alcohol, rendering the recipient contented with himself and his surrounding; a kindly beverage, invented, one might fancy, to smooth away the cares of life and the workaday world, satisfying at once the spirit and the man.

II. I HAVE never doubted that the relation of strong drink to crime and of the lighter wines and beer to crime would, as indicated by the police statistics in every land, show much to the advantage of the latter as against the former. That the brewers of our country have to answer for an overplus of low dives set up by them where liquors as well as beer are sold, is true enough. On this point Adolphus Busch himself spoke in no uncertain terms less than a year ago. But this is an incident which does not affect the argument in favor of the vinous and malt fluids.

Washington, though himself a distiller, was of this opinion. Jefferson, who had seen more of the world—assuredly more of the European world—than Washington, went the length of making a strenuous effort to introduce wine and beer to Virginia by offering a bonus to the vintners and brewers who would come and try the experiment. Not until the Germans arrived in great numbers, however, did the beer industry prosper.

Touching this relation of drink to crime, as revealed by the police records, I am permitted by Consul General Peters to make the following quotation from the latest data compiled by him:

The statistics of arrests for all causes will give some idea of the effect of beer on crime, although it does not necessarily follow that the crime was directly the result of beer. On the contrary, the percentage of intoxication which influenced crime possibly was very small indeed, the percentage of arrests for all causes in comparison with the population was very small and decreasing in a remarkable manner from 1901, when there were 9,334 arrests with a population of 413,235 to 1907, with a population of 538,938, and only 3,883 arrests for all causes.

Inebriety is not a crime in Munich nor will one be arrested for it unless connected with some other cause which may have been the result of inebriety.

There are times, the present is one of them, when a beer is double the strength of ordinary beer and much desired by the people. Only a certain amount of this is brewed and generally consumed in two or three weeks. During this time there is a certain amount of intoxication among the people, but not of a violent character as that produced by alcoholic drink.

The following table of arrests will show the decrease of crime since 1901: 1901 there were 9,334 arrests 1902 there were 8,324 arrests 1903 there were 7,905 arrests 1904 there were 8,801 arrests 1905 there were 6,917 arrests 1906 there were 5,572 arrests 1907 there were 3,883 arrests In 1901 Munich had a population of 413,235, in 1907 538,938, while in 1910 596,052. The statistics of arrests for that year, I regret to say, I have not as yet received. But it will, I dare say, maintain the average of the above figures.

These figures are tolerably conclusive in telling their own story. They completely refute the pleas of the American prohibitionists, who, as I said, make no discrimination and allow no distinctions. One and all, they are intemperate in what they call their temperance, a single glass, according to their philosophy, being the first mile-post on the road to perdition, a glass of beer, or a glass of wine, and a glass of grog, one and the same.

They take their stand upon total abstinence, which is their right. But, not content with adopting it for themselves, they seek to force it by law upon their neighbors. It is impossible to reason with such a spirit. It is of the very essence of despotism. Gratified with respect to in-toxants, it would next address itself to tobacco; then to such food as might fall beneath its ban; and finally, to religious opinion, wearing apparel and personal behavior. Tyranny accepted knows no bounds. Fanaticism is relentless. Over here the masses of the people know this but too well, and the rulers dare not run counter to it.

The moderate use of drink has brought as much happiness into the world as its immoderate use has brought wretchedness. Even in Kentucky, in any of the states of America, there is not per capita in any community one set to a hundred moderate drinkers. Both in England and in the United States drunkenness has steadily abated under the ministrations of an intelligent morality. In these European beer-brewing and wine-making countries drunkenness of the kind common to us is unknown; their standards of production undiminished; their domestic happiness unclouded; their racial and personal worth untainted by the national beverage, whether it be the varied vintage of the grape, or the homely offspring of hops and malt, they go their way and laugh at "despotism in America."

III. OF course there are other breweries besides the Hofbrau in Munich. The Hofbrau is merely a crown property, an inheritance of the Wittelbachs, the reigning family, which dates into the ages so far that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. Though beer is the national beverage, the Government claims and has no monopoly. Nevertheless, the Hofbrauhaus is still by odds the most popular resort of the city.

This Hofbrauhaus was built in 1644. Ludwig the Severe (1255 to 1294), we are told, already possessed a brewery in Munich and under him regulations for the brewers were first drawn up. In the sixteenth century the white wheaten-beer came from Bohemia to Munich and took the place of the brown barley-beer. The brewing of this beer was, however, stopped by the police authorities because it was held to be injurious to health. Whereupon the duke monopolized the right of brewing, and so originated the ducal white brew-house, when, in 1589, "in the interest of the royal purse," a "brown" or "Hofbrauhaus" beer was again brewed in the Hof, which was enlarged in 1631.

In 1708 brown beer was also brewed in the "white brew-house," but since 1807 only brown beer has been brewed. As early as the fifteenth century the brewers assumed an important position among the tradespeople of the town. In the year 1500 there were already twelve beer breweries in Munich. In 1800 a consumption of 50,000 kilderkins was calculated for the summer months alone, and for the year 150,000 kilderkins, according to which it averaged three kilderkins a head, for the population at that time of 40,500. The "Einbeck" beer, called later "Bock" and brewed only by the Hof, was sold for two months beginning on Ascension day 300 years ago. The Hofbrauhaus, as I said, is the most frequented beer house in Munich, and the beer is regarded as the best. But the old primitive place has been renewed and looks most respectable, the Hofbrauhaus rebuilt and brought somewhat to date. The rooms, however, are still furnished in the style of the time of its foundation, and are decorated with paintings. Deer heads adorn the antechamber in the first story. Passing through this room we come to the large hall with a vaulted roof and Gothic windows, allegories and mottoes on the walls between the windows, and at the ends symbolical mural paintings. From the roof are suspended chandeliers with electric light. In the entrance there is a richly decorated "Trinkstube," and everywhere one meets an air of medieval grace with modern comfort.

The throngs that gather here are a sight to see. It is perpetually crowded. The nobleman and the workman touch elbows. Women and children come and go of their own sweet will. Disorder of any sort is undreamed of. The can of beer served for twenty-four pfennigs (six cents) is double the size of the Stein known in America. When his can is empty the habitue takes it himself to the cask and has it refilled. Cheese and sausage are the food staples. This has been going on day in and day out for hundreds of years and furnishes a complete answer to the dogma of the American prohibitionists "that we can no more conduct the liquor business without producing drunkards than we can run rattle-snake ranches without raising poison." One might as well say that we cannot run banks without raising embezzlers; or railways without encountering accidents; or cucumbers and cabbage without the risk of cholera morbus, the thief, the wreck, the bellyache, like the drunkard, being the exception. Shall we have no more fiscal institutions, no more lines of transportation, no more truck gardens and no more cakes and ale? Perish the thought, for what has been and is in Bavaria can be in Kentucky or anywhere else where the rule of sanity and moderation is observed.

We think we are a free people. We agree that the world is too much governed. Yet nowhere is individual liberty so assailed as in the United States. The prohibition wave, now happily subsiding, was a menace to free institutions. Thoughtful people are beginning to see that there are worse evils than the drink evil; evils more subversive of the character of a nation, because more general and pervasive, less obvious and reachable. The drunkard is usually in evidence. He may be dealt with. It is otherwise with the varying forms of personal and political corruption. Virtue is self-resistance to vice, not enforced obedience to drastic regulation. Morality is relative. That may be moral in one country which is immoral in another country. Circumstances alter cases. Time and place must be regarded. This is strictly exemplified by the Hofbrauhaus of Munich.

The "common good," about which we hear so much, like the "general welfare" clause of the constitution, has been worked to death. The "common good" is the veriest abstraction. It is not everywhere the same as one sees here in Bavaria. It has its variants. Who is to decide what is the "common good?" Time was when the Church, or rather its close corporation of ruling prelates, alone decided. The "common good" was their belief, or pretended belief, in prescribed religious dogma. The "common good" embraced certain customs, manners and clothing decreed by canon law as orthodox. The penalties assessed against the delinquent varied from hanging to burning, from the rack to the thumb-screw. They were applied by whichever Church party found itself in the ascendant.

After many centuries of strenuous trial in the effort to make men good by force of arms and tortures, both a costly and a ghastly failure, the self-ordained agents of God sowing the world in blood and flame, were sent to the rear and the doctrine of toleration—the bed-rock of all freedom, of all enlightenment, of all good government—was established measurably throughout Christendom, but absolutely as the founders thought in the United States.

This the prohibitionists would set aside and nullify. To do so they fly in the face of Heaven itself. Treading the cloisters of the past here in Europe, or traveling the thoroughfares of the present at home, I know but one torch to light the way, and that is the Spirit of the Man of Galilee, whose teaching from first to last was at war with force, appealing to the better nature and the reason of man, not his brutal passions and combative parts; and, taking this for my guide, I cannot help thinking the American prohibitionist impious and irreligious in his dogmatism, and at the same time as unwise and indiscriminating in his worldly methods.

I might as well rail at God for bringing sin and disease and death into the world and seek to encompass them by sumptuary legislation. Men may be made hypocrites by law, but never saints. Religious truth has been the rather obscured and retarded than accelerated by theologian controversy.

Repressive agencies culminate in reactions. Radical puritanism in England was succeeded by the debaucheries of the Restoration; and Prohibition laws in the United States have not only not diminished drunkenness, but they have brought in their train scandals and evils quite as hurtful to the community at large as drink has brought to that limited section of the community given over to the excessive use of intoxicants; that is, contempt for law, evasions of law, extortion and adulteration, the corruption alike of the officials and the drink, lawful and needful revenues extinguished in favor of lawless indulgences; the fanatical preacher and the grafting politician uniting to work the spy system each for his own ends, but against the mass and body of society. Who Was There That You Knew?

In the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there a father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction, of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; that duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Garfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $50,000—yet with the help of the Keweenaw or Keweenaw, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

Handsome Woman
 Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should have the good points nature has given her. No woman should have sallow skin, dull eyes, a heavy complexion, who pays no attention to her health. Constipation, liver derangement, blood impurities and other ailments exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal impurities reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark circles around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and action. Chamberlain's Stomach and Bowel Tablets give this necessary help. They are nature's own way. They do not irritate the bowels but tone up the liver and help it to perform its proper functions. So good do they act that one hardly realizes they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, constipation and dizziness. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy
 cured Mrs. C. C. Gokey, of a stubborn case of heart disease, such as thousands are now suffering with. Read what she says:
 "Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had grown so weak that it was impossible for me to do thirty minutes work in a whole day. I suffered intense pains in my left side and under the left shoulder blade, I could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath that I thought I should never be able to take a full breath again. The least excitement would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had scarcely taken a half-bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. I began to sleep well, had a good appetite, and improved so rapidly that when I had taken six bottles I was completely cured."

T. J. White, the Yeoman organizer, was here during the week from Devine where he reports a large membership. The local Homestead held its monthly meeting Thursday night and enrolled another new member. The Homestead is in a flourishing condition.

Prof. W. W. Dover's pupils, the seventh grade, presented him with a nice Morris chair one day this week as a token of their appreciation of him as their teacher. Prof. Dover naturally is very proud of this compliment from his pupils.

August Martin and B. C. Wiemers, two prominent farmers of Medina County, living just south of the Bandera and Medina Co. line, were in Bandera last Friday, and paid the Enterprise a pleasant call. The gentlemen are strongly in favor of a semi-weekly mail line from Bandera to Hondo and think it would be a great convenience to the people of both counties living along the Bandera-Hondo road.—Bandera Enterprise.

Sheriff Jo Bader was down at Devine during the week and arrested seven of the parties against whom indictments were returned at the recent term of district court here. One is a white man living in Atascosa Co. who was indicted for carrying a pistol, and six of them, four women and two men, are Mexicans who were indicted for violating the local option law. All of the parties except the two Mexican men gave bond and were released.

Falkenberg left Tuesday for Galveston where he in the future will reside, and where he resumes the position as prescription clerk in the drug store which he resigned several years ago to purchase the drug business here. Mr. Falkenberg wishes to thank his patrons here for their favors and asks that the same be continued to his successors. The Anvil Herald regrets Mr. Falkenberg's departure from our city and wishes him success in his new position.

E. F. Matejowsky, a practical oil mill man of Lyons, Texas, is here looking into the oil mill proposition. A committee is soliciting a bonus for the mill and if sufficient encouragement is given the proposed enterprise stock will be offered for sale and a company will be organized with a capital stock of $30,000.00 to operate a two-press oil mill. It is to be hoped that the proper amount of encouragement in the matter of a bonus and stock subscription will be forthcoming to assure the enterprise.

From the "35 years ago today" column of last Tuesday's San Antonio Express we clip the following: Charles De Montel and Sheriff Vallman of Medina County returned from Austin the latter part of last week with $25,000 State funds to be distributed in their county. Several miles this side of the Cibola they saw three men riding some distance off to one side of the road. Observing their actions the signs were too "transparent" for Mr. DeMontel, who is an old Texan, so they retraced their steps to Selma and telegraphed Gov. Coke for an escort. On instructions from the Governor, Sheriff Knox sent three men to escort the officers and funds safely through.

A Liver Medicine

That Beats Calomel

Dodson's Liver Tonic Does the Same Work as Calomel Without Making You Sick. It is Vegetable, Tastes Good and Never Fails.

Everybody who has ever taken calomel knows what a strong drug it is. Calomel spurs the tired liver as if it were a tired horse, and while the liver works harder for a little while, it is soon weaker than ever.

Dodson's Liver Tonic is a vegetable tonic that gently induces the most sluggish liver to work. Taking it is followed by no bad after effects. No restriction of habit or diet necessary. For either children or grown people.

W. H. Windrow sells a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for fifty cents and guarantees it to be a perfect substitute for calomel and will give you your money back if it disappoints you.

Farmer's Union Meeting.

The next county union will meet with the Hondo local Friday, June 9th, it being the day before the stock holders meeting of the warehouse Co. which is June 10, and the time for the election of new Directors and President.

Come prepared to take more stock and make it a success.

Five gallons saved is $20 or $25 earned. It costs $3 or $4 dollars to paint, besides the paint; as much to brush-on a gallon of worthless paint as Devoe. Indispensable in Emergencies

THE sickness of a valuable animal on the farm demands prompt remedies.

It's a case for the veterinary—a case where minutes count. That's where the Bell Service shows its value to the farmer.

By means of the telephone the veterinary is reached, and he at once tells the farmer what to do until he arrives.

No far-sighted farmer gets along without the protection of the Bell Service.

He can never tell when it is going to save him from serious loss. Besides, he has daily proof of its usefulness.
